The Nation's Big Printery.

A brief illustration of the amount of material and supplies necessary to maintain the big printery for a year may be given as one-half million rubber bands, one and a half tons of nails, 5,000 gallons of oil, over 100 tons of metal for composing machines, nearly $50,000 worth of book cloth and golf leaf to the amount of $18,000. The lead pencils used in the office, if laid end to end, would reach about three miles. An item for washing $225,000 towels in the next fiscal year should forever lay the stock joke of the printer's "office towel."—Washington Star.

CRUSADE ON INSANITY

Result of Phipps Gift to Johns Hopkins University.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS AS CLINICS

Experts Will Watch Effects of Strenuous Life on Children and Will Seek Out Incipient Cases—Free Preventive Treatment to Be Given.

The gift by Henry Phipps, the steel magnate of Pittsburgh, of $500,000 to Johns Hopkins university for the study of insanity and for the more careful treatment of insane patients will probably have the effect of starting a wholesale crusade against insanity, according to the opinion recently expressed to a Washington correspondent of the New York Times by Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane at Washington. This crusade, which Mr. Phipps' large donation has made possible, will not rest content with the establishment of a regular clinic in connection with the university hospital. As explained by Dr. White, the diagnosis of insanity is already on a scientific basis, as much so as other branches of medicine. The radical departure that will now be inaugurated will be in seeking out cases of incipient insanity and submitting the sufferers to treatment of a preventive nature.

The public schools will be thoroughly overhauled for this purpose. Just as now the school is used as a central point for forcing the children to undergo vaccination, so the next few years, said Dr. White, will see the schools used as a rallying point against the first germs of insanity.

As formerly specified in the deed of gift, the bequest will be utilized in establishing an additional ward at Johns Hopkins university. There special treatment will be provided for the patients in the earlier stages of insanity.

The next step which is contemplated in accord with the general plan of the gift is to go back to the causes of insanity. Here nothing could be accomplished without recourse to the public schools. Not only will the patients in need of treatment for the early stages of mental disease be supplied from the schools, free treatment being offered the parents of afflicted children, but to a certain extent the schools themselves will become clinics on a larger scale than would be possible in any hospital.

Here the effects of nervous diseases and their gradual growth into more serious cases of mental disturbance will be watched, and a careful selective process will be made possible to the officers in charge of the work. Children who show signs of undue morbidness or shyness, who have become "high strung" from efforts to surpass their classmates in their studies, will come under the direct attention of trained medical experts.

Under this new system it will be possible to study the effect of the strenuous life on the young. The universal criticism that has been directed at public schools for unduly forcing children into premature study of Latin, Greek and mathematics has already directed the attention of scientists to this quarter.

The erection of the new ward at the hospital will make it possible for cases that warrant it—and the experts intend to take up the treatment of cases as soon as the signs are definitely diagnosed—to be brought at once under systematic treatment.

Since the treatment will be free, patients may be induced to take it who otherwise would be set down as merely "queer" and allowed to get along by themselves. This phase of the crusade is expected to put an enormous amount of data concerning the disease at the command of medical men.

The field opened up in the schools by this bequest is an enormous one, and the authorities do not expect to get it thoroughly systematized for several years.

The method to be pursued in this second phase of the crusade will consist in all the possible ways of popularizing the results of scientific investigation. Every effort will be made to interest parents in the subject, and information for the use of teachers and nurses will be scattered broadcast.

Under this head plans are already being formulated for a series of public lectures on the symptoms of insanity, the treatment of the disease and the methods of preventing the growth of morbid or abnormal tendencies in children. These lectures as time goes on will assume the proportions of "chauteaus of health," and a knowledge of the earlier forms of mental weakness will be as generally known and discussed in homes as are the ordinary run of children's sicknesses.

Lemon Bath a Beautifying Device.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has adopted a custom from the Dutch ladies, and everybody is once more admiring her majesty's fair skin and its satin-like softness, says a dispatch from The Hague. Wilhelmina confesses that it is probably due to the lemon baths she has been taking for the past few months upon the advice of the wife of one of her colonial governors. The lemon bath is made as follows: Five lemons, cut into slices, are left to soak in a basin of water for half an hour. After the bath water has been drawn from the faucet the lemon water is added and the whole stirred vigorously. The bath is a great invigorator and excellent cleanser and has a most soothing, refreshing and softening influence on the skin.
